

The future of international contract drafting and arbitration has started with the Vis Moot

By now, each Vis Moot student has had to cope with the UNIDROIT Principles as the law of Danubia. This session shall give you a chance to discuss your experience and to explore the possibilities of further use of the UNIDROIT Principles in international commercial arbitration and contracting.

The Team

Prof. Dr. Eckart Brödermann (University of Hamburg) is a Bar-Certified Expert of International Business Law. He has studied in Paris (License, Maître en droit), Harvard (LL.M) and Hamburg. From 2006-2010, he served as one of the “official observers” at the inter-governmental Institute for the Unification of Private Law, founded as an auxiliary organ of the League of Nation (UNIDROIT). In 2018, he published a commentary on the UNIDROIT Principles (Wolters Kluwer/Nomos). Together with Nina and Paul, he worked in major arbitration proceedings under the UNIDROIT Principles. Presently, the team is conducting research in the legislative materials for the second edition of his commentary.

Nina Merrath participated in the Vis Moot in 2018/2019 and ever since supports the teams of the University of Hamburg as Alumni. After the Moot, she started to work as research assistant for Prof. Dr. Brödermann. To improve her skills in legal negotiation and international commercial arbitration, she spent one semester at Aarhus University in 2020/2021. She

Paul Vogel was a participant to the Vis Moot in 2019/2020. With his team, he was second runner-up and personally earned an honourable mention as one of the best speakers. Up until now, he is still involved as supporting Alumni. Since 2020, he works as research assistant for Prof. Dr. Brödermann and thereby improved his knowledge about the UNIDROIT Principles and international commercial arbitration. Since October 2020, Paul further uses his negotiation skills as he works in the Refugee Law Clinic Hamburg.
